

The report of training the observers for the Iraqi parliamentary election 2010

Iraqi democratic future network in cooperation with Tammuz organization for Social development have finished the preparations of training its observers who reached 14600, to observe the Iraqi parliamentary election of 2010. The training plan included the equipments of observation the observers will handle, the procedures of making the election, recognizing the rule and the instructions that the Higher Independent Commission of Election HICE has issued recently. The HICE rules were concerned with organizing the work of the observers, their rights, duties, and the behavioral rules they should follow necessarily through out the period of election. The training workshops that IDFN pursued included the means of communication between the observers and the observation team. It is worth mentioning that the 286 training workshops and courses were held in Iraqi 18 provinces. Some of the HICE and Media reporters and correspondents attended the IDFN courses and workshops.

It deserves noting that Tammuz organization was and still is one of the main organizations in Iraq that monitor the election since the national assembly election of Jan 2005 and the following Iraqi parliamentary election. It issued many accomplishment& detailed reports about the process of observation that it
